ONE-PAGE BRIEF

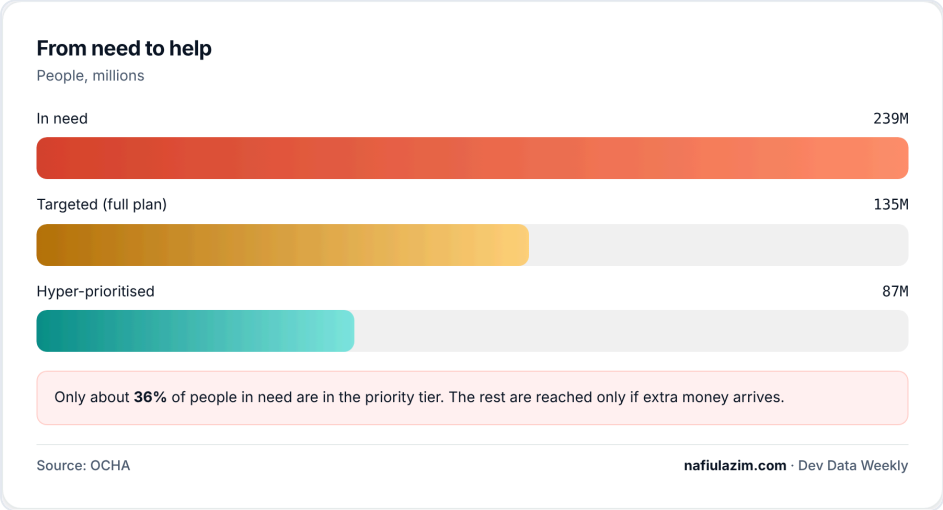

239 million people need humanitarian aid. The plan targets 87 million.

Funding cuts pushed the UN to scale back its 2026 humanitarian appeal. Here's who is in, who is left out, and where the money now comes from.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

1. 239 million people need humanitarian aid, but the 2026 plan prioritises only 87 million (36%).
2. The prioritised ask is US$23 billion, after 25 million fewer people were reached in 2025 than in 2024.
3. The US share of government humanitarian funding fell from about 40% to 23%; Gulf donors rose from 10% to 17%.
