ONE-PAGE BRIEF

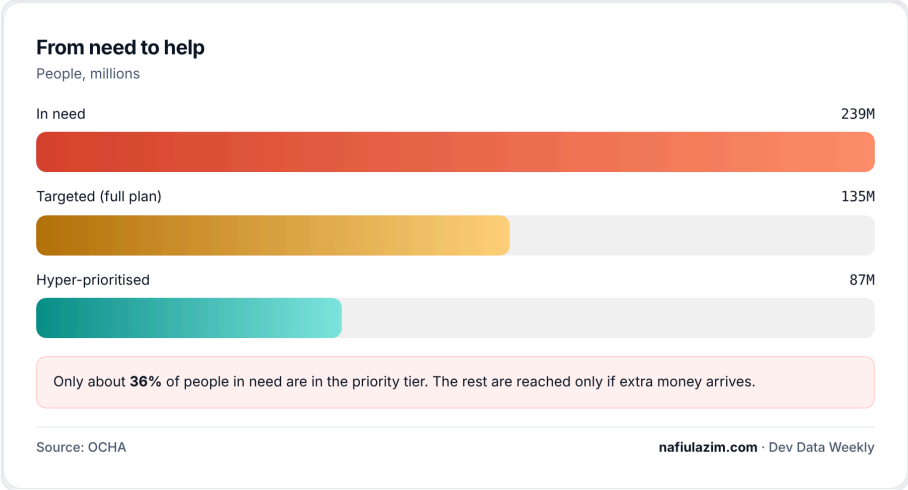

239 million people need humanitarian aid. The plan targets 87 million.

Funding cuts pushed the UN to scale back its 2026 humanitarian appeal. Here's who is in, who is left out, and where the money now comes from.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

1. 239 million people need humanitarian aid in 2026. With less money available, the UN plan focuses first on 87 million of them (36%).
2. Helping those 87 million people requires US$23 billion. Separately, aid reached 25 million fewer people in 2025 than in 2024.
3. The donor mix is shifting: the United States went from about 40% of government humanitarian funding (before 2025) to 23% in 2025, while Gulf donors rose from 10% to 17%.

SOURCES

OCHA – GHO 2026 At a Glance · OCHA – GHO 2026 launch · The New Humanitarian – Five takeaways · ALNAP – GHA Report 2026 · OCHA – Afghanistan · OCHA oPt · OCHA DRC · GHO 2026 – Sudan · UN UNifeed · OCHA Financial Tracking Service